

Bio File
David F. Wallace

HARRY TRUMAN ARRIVES IN DENVER

Denver Post Photo

Former President Harry S. Truman is met at Denver's Stapleton Field Monday night by his nephew, David F. Wallace Jr., and Mrs. Truman. The ex-president's brother-in-law died in Porter Hospital about four hours earlier.

Civil Defense Group Tours Springs Center

Denver Post Special
COLORADO SPRINGS, Oct. 10.—Leo A. Hoegh, national defense administrator, and a party of other civil defense officials arrived in Colorado Springs Monday night for a two-day briefing at North American Civil Defense Command headquarters. The group will tour the Command Operations Center here, from which the Federal Civil Defense Administration would flash a warning in the event of an air attack on the North American continent. Others in the visiting party include Ralph Spear, assistant administrator; Emil Reutzel, special assistant to the administrator, and several military defense leaders.

Fred Wallace, 57, Dies; Mrs. Truman's Brother

(See story on page 1 also)
Fred Wallace, 57, brother-in-law of former President Harry Truman, died Monday night in Porter Hospital of pneumonia which developed after a heart attack he suffered last Wednesday in his home at 1739 E. 13th Ave. Mrs. Truman arrived in Denver Monday afternoon a few hours before Wallace died. She, with Mrs. Wallace and Wallace's son, David, were at his bedside when he died. Ex-President Truman arrived at Stapleton Airfield about four hours after Wallace's death.

He returned to Kansas City, Mo., Tuesday noon by plane. Wallace was born in Independence, Mo., in 1900 and was educated there. He also attended the University of Missouri. He and his wife, Christine, came to Denver about 15 years ago from Missouri and had lived in Denver since, except for two years spent in Albuquerque. He engaged in the real estate business until a few years ago when he became a right-of-way appraiser for the State Highway Department. He is survived by his wife; a son, David Fred Wallace, a private in the army; two daughters,

Mrs. Richard Brasher of Lakewood and Miss Margo Wallace of Denver; his sister, Mrs. Bess Truman, and two brothers, Frank G. and George P. Wallace, both of Independence, Mo. Rosary for Wallace will be recited at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the Moore Mortuary. Requiem high mass will be sung at 9 a. m. Wednesday in St. John's Catholic Church. Burial will be in Independence. Carpenter? Plumber? List your services in "Service Directory," Post Want Ads. Call MA. 3-2121 today!